PREFACE

OF COURSE we realize that no annual can ever approach a reflection of college life as it really is. Only a cinematograph machine could do that and then only if the subjects were caught while unaware they were being photographed. At best the material contained in a year book can act only as an incentive for the recollection of life in the college as it was lived. Very much the same sort of glamour hangs about an annual as about a framed picture. The picture centers our view on a particular spot marked off by the frame but we always wonder what extends beyond—could we but see. An annual represents a static point in college organization, generally at the peak of activity, that is all. You yourself must supply the rest.

As for the art theme, there is none. It was our original intentions to make it modern; but in studying the modern motif we were led to the classic and finally we were led to adopt a middle ground of classic simplicity and modern impressionism. We have attempted to make the whole background of the book atmospheric. If any symbolic meaning can be attached to any of the executions, well and good. If not, consider them decorative.

In spite of several handicaps we have attempted to produce the annual at a minimum of expense to the student and at the same time of superior artistic value. We hope that we have succeeded at least in part. The cost to the student has been less this year than that of any previous year at the sacrifice of neither space nor quality of material.

We express our thanks to those who have helped collect material for the Nineteen Twenty-nine ZENITH; particularly to the students who were intrusted by the Seniors with the task of compiling their Senior write-ups. And to the college administration we wish to extend our sincerest appreciation for their co-operation, without which this book could not have been.

PLEASANT GARDENS, N. C.

Nikanthan Literary Society

Christian Endeavor Society, 1, 2, 3, 4; Paracelsus Scientific Society, 2, 3, 4; Secretary of Christian Endeavor Society, 2; Randolph County Club, 1, 2, 3; Hiking Club, 3, 4; Dramatic Club, 2, 3; Vice-President of Christian Endeavor Society, 4; Secretary of Class, 4; Vice-President of Nikanthan Literary Society, 3; Track Team.

"Loyal and steadfast, loving and true," are the keynote words in Louise's character. Her loyalty extends throughout her varied range of activity—school, church, home, and friendships. Her loving, straight-forward squareness and sportsmanship are the solid foundations on which she has built her life, and it is through these that she has meant so much to her college. She is a leader in literary and Christian Endeavor Societies, a dependable hand in all girls' athletics, and stands high in scholarship—always achieving worthwhile things with little effort. Her reserve is only exceeded by the capable manner in which her mind grasps and solves a problem. Her friendships are only exceeded by the love which guides her in them and will lead her life forward to the challenge that she keeps steadfastly before her.

Thalean Literary Society

Ministerial Association, 1, 2, 3, 4; Christian Endeavor Society, 1, 2, 3, 4; Delegate to International Student Volunteer Convention, Detroit, Mich., 3; Y. M. C. A., 3, 4; Men's Student Government, 3; Delegate to State Student Volunteer Convention, 1, 3; Assistant in Chemistry Laboratory, 2, 3; Alamance Club, 1, 2, 3; Choral Club, 4; College Band, 1, 2, 3; College Marshal, 3; Chapel Monitor, 3; Class Treasurer, 4; Thalean Literary Society, Vice-President, 3; Secretary, 2; Chaplain, 2; Y. Ministerial duties have not kept Jabus from engaging in all other college activities. He is an earnest student, and interested in all phases of college life; Christian Endeavor, Literary Societies, athletics, and girls claim his full attention. Always busy. He demonstrates the fact that work is one of the most satisfying ways of spending time. The fact that he preaches two or more sermons every Sunday, meets from two to five classes daily, with often and unexpected pastoral duty to perform, does not make him less sociable or less energetic. He still believes in fun, politics, good literature, and in High Point College.

ANTONIOS ANTONAKOS, B.S.

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Pre-Med Club, 2, 3, 4; Business Manager Hi-Po, 3; College Marshal, 3; Technician Dramatic Work Shop, 3; A. B. C. Student, 4; Editor-in-Chief "Zenith," 4; Advertising Manager for Athletics, 3.

Tony has all that makes a real student, native brilliance, studious habits, loyalty, all around interests, and a wonderful capacity for work. He is the artist of the class, and his contributions to the literary and dramatic work of the institution have been marked. Leader in grades, power in the workshop, a success on the "Hi-Po" staff, winner of the Junior prize for best all-round student and now successful editor of the "Zenith." What more could he do! And with all, a jolly real fellow. Success has been his and will be his.

JUANITA AMICK, A.B.

BURLINGTON, N. C.

Sigma Alpha Phi Nikanthan Literary Society

Artemesian Literary Society, 1; Pan-Hellenic Council, 4; Choral Club, 4; Secretary Nikanthan Literary Society, 2; Secretary Class, 3; Secretary-Treasurer Pan-Hellenic Council, 4; President Girls' Athletic Association, 4; Captain Girls' Track Team, 3, 4.

Juanita holds a place in the hearts of her school-mates. Her entrance permit? A clean-cut character. A heart of gold—often purposely hidden by its owner with words that to the casual listener would seem pointed. No one can say that she was not a good student. Her major is Latin—and she too was among those who attempted to master the uvular "r" in the advanced courses of French. And in athletics—first, captain of the girls' track team, and now president of the girls' athletic association. On the field few could excel her.

THEODORE ANTONAKOS, B.S.

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Pre-Med Club, 2, 3, 4; Akrothianian Literary Society, 3; Paracelsus Scientific Society, 3; Vice-President Pre-Med Club, 2; Business Manager "Hi-Po," 2; President Paracelsus Scientific Society, 3; Business Manager "Zenith," 4.

Theodore, with technique and skill that few attain, is a conscientious worker both in the laboratory and off the campus. He is a lover of truth and hates hypocrisy and sham in every form. Yet, unlike so many who have the scientific attitude, he has lost none of humanism. He has a keen appreciation of humor, and one could find no friend with more sympathetic understanding and consideration of others than "Footsie."

TREVA JANE BEESON, A.B.

Treva is the least in stature of the Class of '29, but her personality is so big that you don't notice her stature at all. She is cheerful and playful; yet, she has will power and determination to win in whatever game she plays. Her interests range from Home Economics to Track, chief among them being foreign language, which she plans to teach. Though she is a lover of fun, she is serious when she need be; an excellent scholar, a genuine friend. Here's to you, Treva, may yours be the best of all that is good.

That Angel indeed is all his name implies, any of his numerous friends will corroborate, for he is always kind, sympathetic and loving; one to whom we instinctively turn for aid on any difficult proposition. Unusual scholastic attainments and participation in practically all extra-curricular activities combine to make the youngest senior an all-round student. Despite his many activities, Angel has found time to do intensive research work, leading to a certain graduate degree in the department of social hour. With English as his immediate future and religious education as his ambition, those who know him may easily predict a successful career that we will be proud to claim as a product of High Point College.

HELEN LUTETIA BARKER, A.B.

HIGH POINT, N. C.

Alpha Theta Psi Nikanthan Literary Society

Girls' Day Student Government.

Helen is a practical, straightforward girl who works easily and comfortably at any task she undertakes. She has a friendly disposition and is thoughtful of others. Her keen brown eyes attract the attention of everyone. She is so reserved about her own affairs that not many people know her intimately—always interested in her school work and conscientiously industrious in her application to her books. She grasps those opportunities for learning, which will help her in life. In choosing her life work, it would be well for her to take some career in which her domestic proficiency could be made useful.

MARGARET CLARINE DAVIS, A.B.

Girls' Day Student Government, 3, 4; Treasurer Class, 2; Vice-President Girls' Day Student Government, 4.

A dependable, steady kind of person with a great ambition and high ideals—that's "Maggie." She does everything in her power to make everyone happy. She is noted for refinement and good character. Her personality radiates among her associates. She is pleasant in her manner of meeting people, and she gives the impression of liking everyone she meets because she is ready to serve them in any way possible. Brilliant in her books—a person who never begins anything unless she finishes it. We know that life holds great things for her.

"Dick, the sincere," a one hundred per cent friend. One of the best liked men on the campus. Dick has been a star in all of his athletic undertakings. He has been a dependable leader, one who works for others' interests, one who gives all, asking nothing for himself. He will be missed as much in the extra-curricular activities and social life of the campus as on the athletic field. We expect great things of this quiet unassuming comrade.

First say that she can be depended upon, and then make the statement that she has initiative. This will characterize her in reference to her schoolmates. Judge her actions; analyze her expressions concerning everyday affairs. She is intelligent. And then make a study of the qualities which she appreciates—honesty of character—the beauty of balanced living—you have an index to her character. This is Claire Douglas.

Kind and sweet in disposition; a quiet, invariable nature; always willing to do her part—that's Lillie Mae! All who know her are impressed by her strength of character, refinement, sweet temper, and gentle nature. There is something about her lovable personality that belongs to no one else. She is one, who never fails when duty calls her service. Lillie Mae was always interested in her school work and other phases of college life—from social activities to athletics. Her scholarship, together with her gentle characteristics, will surely bring to her those things which count, in the great game of life. Here's to you, Lillie Mae!

Elda is a sane, sensible person with a strong will power, and carries through any project in which she is interested. She is independent and happy. Her ideas are definite when it comes to expressing them. She is one who works easily and capably, without making any fuss over what she has accomplished. She is very feminine in her love for pretty clothes, and dresses well. She is planning to be an "old maid school teacher," but we wonder? We think not.

As Willie found her niche in High Point College so will she find it in the world—in the hearts of everyone with whom she comes in contact—judge that by her diamond. She is finishing college in three years—but that does not keep her from participation in extra-curricular activities. There is her fine record in debating and athletics. Good grades from her we naturally expect. A pretty, popular, intelligent and vivacious girl who will make a success of life and who will do it whole-heartedly.

Who is more capable than Louise? She can do anything and do it well. As for her sincerity, once she is your friend, she is your true friend always. Can you wonder why people go to her for sympathy? She is serious when it is time to be serious, but when that time is past, she is the jolliest of the crowd. Too, she has enough independence to be charming, so that is why we think of Louise as one of the most popular girls on the campus.

In speaking of representative people Margaret is one of the first that we must mention. In looking over her college career we find that "Meg" has been very busy in many phases of college activities. An artist, being art editor of the "Zenith" for two years; a musician, helping compose the words and music of the Alma Mater; a hard worker and one on whom we can depend; one of the most popular girls on the campus—possessing, with beauty and brains, a dash of wit. Well, what else is there to say? Nothing—except that with all this she has found time to have a date almost every "nite" with a certain Sophomore! ! ! Certainly she has enjoyed her college days and has made them what they should be. Hats off to a "first rate" girl!

Shall we call her the "Little Puritan Maiden?" Just to look at her, one is reminded of the pure, modest girl of the old New England days. Indeed she is so loving, kind, and sacrificing, one would even dare pay her reverence. She is a friend to everybody and her cheerful and witty disposition makes life about her always bright and sunny. Add to this, depth of character and determination and you will see why we have such faith in her future, and why we pledge to her so unhesitatingly our love and loyalty.

And "Dot" captivates us all! Talented, popular, friendly, capable, attractive, a good sport—a good all-round girl! She is an enthusiastic supporter of all college activities. Her ability, her loyalty, and her friendship demonstrate her life as a student here. The dominant talent of her manifold endowments is her voice—a lyric soprano of unusual beauty; and she uses it with marked intelligence. Its clarity and purity leave nothing to be desired. And we can never forget that it was she and "Meg" who composed our school song. We know that Dorothy will reflect credit on her Alma Mater.

If consistency be truly golden then surely your heart must be found to be wrought of poor pewter, and that alloyed. Four more privileged years. "Puss," as he is known to everyone on the campus, is just another proof that valuable things come in small packages. His favorite quotation is "Sweet Jessie" and his hobby is English; he is equally fond of each. He has not confined his work to the study of English entirely, but has been an outstanding figure in society work, and it will suffer the loss of one of its greatest sons when he is gone. The successful pilotage of the Thalean Literary Society during his last year in college is an example of his ability as a leader. We hate to see you leave, "Puss," for you have made our lives seem brighter; but our loss is the world's gain, and this time we lose a gem.

A man's reaction to the stimulus administered from his fellow-man characterizes him to the fullest extent. Bill's four years at High Point College need no flowery words of praise, no exaggerations of character, but just a simple recollection of those fundamentals that make him a clean-cut character. Broadminded, determined, and willingness to accept another's opinion stamp him as a leader. As Junior Class president, and head of the Akrothian Literary Society he placed himself in the hearts of his classmates and society friends. The football men call him "The Plugger." In a simple way his teammates have recognized his four years of service to the football squad. Regardless of your actions in future years, Bill, you left us, every inch a man.

Jones is a rather queer individual according to those who do not know him well. He addresses everyone as "Young Sprout" and refers to girls as "Chaps." He is a broadminded sort of person who is ever seeking new truths and his questions on class are ever a source of piquancy to his instructors. His cheery "s'morning!" and his silver-toned voice will be missed when he leaves High Point College. Good luck to you, Jones. We have always looked forward to your music numbers in chapel. Wherever you go we are certain that your voice will win for you a place in the hearts of men.

Velna is a gentle soul, with refinement, culture, daintiness, and is loved by all who know her. She is attractive, neat, sympathetic, thoughtful, and likes to do kindly deeds for others. Her devotedness to her family and relatives show that she is always ready to sacrifice herself in their behalf. She is womanly and delightful in her manner towards men and women, and is as much a favorite with the masculine portion of humanity as with the feminine. Here's wishing success and happiness to her in whatever she undertakes.

Our high regard and deep love for "Polly," we "would not willingly let die." At first glance one would possibly think her reserved—but not so when one goes beneath this and sees her at her best. When in trouble, or in need of friendly counsel we turn to Polly. This quality coupled with firmness, determination, and ability has made her thoroughly successful in the difficult position of House President. Just as her ideals are high so are her achievements, not only in scholarship but in all other campus activities. We predict for her future success—why she has even aspired to Greek. Polly says the "Garrett" is to have the largest place in her home!

Here's to Inez, the other twin from "out in town." Lovable, cheerful, patient, and demure, a friend of whom you are always sure." Her heart is like a garden fair where many pleasant flowers grow. Those who know her, love her for her amiable character, and kind disposition, and count it a privilege to be numbered among her friends. She was always a worthy student, an active figure in the social life of the college, a sincere, steady religious worker, and an ideal little housekeeper on the sideline. Take a pleasant smile, add to this a quiet and unassuming manner, mix with a neat appearance, flavor with courtesy, and stir in a few grains of dignity. The result will be Irene, one of the capable and dependable "Twins" of the Class of '29.

PEARL PAYNE, A.B.

GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C.

Girls' Day Student Government Association.

In Pearl we have one of the more quiet members of the class. Such a characteristic is a great asset and one to be admired. We always find her to be a very sympathetic listener and interested in whatever one has to say. Running hand in hand with this rare trait we find that she is very studious—and therefore a good student. "Still waters run deep" and with this in mind we are sure that the future holds great things for Pearl, and that she will make good in whatever she undertakes. Remember that that we are proud to have you in the Class of '29, Pearl; and your classmates' best wishes go with you.

Glenn possesses those characteristics that stamp him as a friend to all that know him. Unusual work in the classroom brings about his graduation in three years. As Freshman class president he uncovered great leadership ability. In literary society he was an outstanding figure. In athletic circles he was a member of the football squad and manager of the basketball team. In continuing his education at some medical school we readily prophesy success. As president of the pre-med society here he proved that he had an unusual preliminary knowledge of medicine. In losing you this year, Glenn, we feel it is like losing an "honest-to-goodness" pal. May the finders be characters that will value you as we have.

GRAYDON RING, A.B.

Graydon is a quiet, unassuming sort of individual who, while not having a large circle of associates, is a thorough good fellow, is dependable, conscientious, and has a refreshing sense of humor. He goes about his business in a thorough manner and with an earnestness which has won for him an enviable scholastic record at High Point College. He is a wizard in mathematics and we cannot but predict for him a brilliant record if he carries out his plans for attending post-graduate school.

"If I can get the car, you wanta go with me?" That's Marjorie—always thinking of some one else. When the game's called, here comes Marjorie with more than her share of the girls. She's never made herself conspicuous. Conscientious and capable in her scholastic work, she has done her work efficiently and whole-heartedly. If she loves she loves and a truer friend you'll never find.

An individual of rare qualities, who does not try to impress upon the herd that he is above it. Wood has not confined his scholastic activities to religious education alone, but versatility has been one of the chief characteristics of his college life, including an adoration of "curly hair." He has attained some of the highest honors in the religious education department; but at the same time he has searched far afield, studied with an open, unprejudiced mind, and has developed a sound, practicable and happy philosophy of life. Those who can count "Bill" among their friends are fortunate, for he is always the same jovial and true friend; always willing and eager to lend a helping hand.

"Red," as he is known to his schoolmates, is one who possesses real ability on class and can make friends anywhere. He has been an active worker in college activities and will no doubt find a place in life that can be filled only by capable men. "Red" may not be of athletic nature, but you can depend on him to be there with that old Panther spirit and his unassuming smile that the girls cannot resist. He seems slow to those who do not know him, but he thinks soundly, knows the right thing to do at the right time, and can be classed as a very business-like young man. We predict a bright future for "Red" in whatever field he may choose.

But her scholastic rating is high also. Although her duties on the paper do not permit her to take a great interest in extra-curricular activities, she is ready to help when called upon. We see Mamie as self-willed, a fact which is evident in the manner in which she handles her various tasks alone. She has a way of adding spice to even dry conversation. She is quick at repartee and her spark of wit adds zest to the interest created. All admire you, Mamie! You will bring honor to your Alma Mater.

Class Poem

BY GROVER L. ANGEL

*The beadsmith brings a necklace rare,
A beauteous, wondrous thing,
The masterpiece of a master hand.
The beadsmith shaped and planned
Each bead that makes our priceless string.
The beads are like drops of dew
Before the dawn of day
Has been replaced by burning sun;
Each drop alike, yet every one
Shines in its peculiar way.
Three times the string was broken;
Thrice the beads were scattered 'round.
The beadsmith set to work anew
To make a string that's straight and true,
But each time fewer beads were found.
And now the string must break again,
Each bead must leave the rest,
And somewhere in the world be known
By shining luster, as precious stone
Of strength and value best.
To you we'll live a string of beads
Unbroken, as the beadsmith planned.
Though we scatter o'er the earth,
We'll reflect the moulder's worth
In life of beauty to all the land.*

The musical score is written in a key signature of two flats (B-flat and E-flat) and a 3/4 time signature. It consists of a vocal line and a piano accompaniment. The piano part features a steady bass line with chords in the right hand. The vocal line includes lyrics and a 'Chorus' section.

Lyrics:

 We'll give praise and honor To the Class of Twenty. Time

And So We Saw

BY ELIZABETH NICHOLSON

I'LL NEVER FORGET the morning we registered. Yes, it was in the fall of 1925. There were one hundred and twenty-three of us registering this September morning. As all other freshmen, we too were at a loss to know what it was all about. I recall hearing one of the girls say that she didn't believe she would like her work because they didn't even teach Arithmetic here. Gee! I was terribly shocked! The first two weeks passed off nicely with the only outstanding error, that of electing a "prep" as President of the Freshman Class. We soon found our mistake and after much coaching from the upperclassmen realized what a terrible blunder we had made. It was the next few months, however, that we remember best. Some ignorant freshman misread the worthy motto of the sophomore class, "Non serviri sed servire," and thus it was translated to us, "Not to serve but to be served." For nine long months we remained unenlightened as to the false translation.

But as sophomores we soon realized our mistakes and as sweet vengeance, made the incoming Class of '20 look up and serve us. It was during this period in our career that two of our girls, Dorothy Hoskins and Margaret Gurley, wrote the College Song. Keith Harrison won out in the State Oratorical Contest. Several of our members took part in the intercollegiate debates. There were now only fifty-four of us, but had we not done our part to put H. P. C. on the map?

And So We Saw

In the fall of '27 forty entered the Junior Class. Our members again took part in all the College activities. One of the mountain peaks of the Junior year was the Junior-Senior banquet given in Robert's Hall, April 19, 1928. The decorations and toasts were a credit to the class and with Bill Hunter as toastmaster the banquet went over in a big fashion! It was in this year too that we saw High Point College meet the state requirements of an A-grade college.

As seniors we see our dreams come true. The beautiful fountain stands as a recognition of our love for our Alma Mater. We have watched her first two graduating classes go out to meet life. It is not with pain and grief that we go for we feel that there is something bigger in life that is calling us. Thus we leave happy, feeling that now we are better prepared to meet life as it really is. Remember, classmates, that High Point College is watching us and reading with interest the thirty-six volumes that are being written by the members of the Class of '29.

School of Commerce

IN DAYS gone by, it was necessary to have only a cultural education to be called "educated." These days have long passed, and today an education is not completed without some knowledge of commercial training. Now, we realize that we must have an insight into practical life—an education that will fit us for service. With this in view, the Commercial Department offers this opportunity to those students who want to succeed in the business world.

Why have such a department in a college? Because our economic life has been growing more and more complex and demands better minds to grapple with its problems. Because there are hundreds of young men and women who would take a higher education if emphasis were laid upon subjects which had to do with their future careers. Because the colleges and universities ought to have a more influential place in the business life of the country.

The Commercial Department has as its goal "High Standards of Business English." To this end, it strives to give the student the best training possible in this field. It gives a student a real command of the language along with an increased vocabulary. Then it stresses the use of forceful and tactful words, both in composition and in expression.

Quite as necessary as the above is Commercial Law. Whether a student plans to be a doctor or a salesman; a laborer or a promoter, he must have some knowledge of law. It is the common need of today, and commercial law will give the essential steps that lead to success.

Shorthand and typewriting are of such importance that one must be able to do both efficiently. To be successful as a stenographer, one must be able to take and transcribe notes readily, and to acquire neatness in the work turned out. An inefficient stenographer cannot hold a good position, for the business man demands accuracy, speed, and a sense of responsibility.

Equally important is bookkeeping, which is essential in every business house. Books must be balanced, accounts kept, and records filed. The business man demands this, and he wants a man or woman who can do it accurately and systematically.

The aim of the Commercial Department is: (1) To train the student for business on the basis of a broad outlook on life. (2) To give him thorough knowledge of the principles that underlie business action. (3) To acquaint him with efficient business practice.

To enroll in the Commercial Department means that you are one step higher on the ladder called "Success."

Coach J. P.
Boylin

The place to which High Point has climbed in the athletic world in the few years of the College's existence is the direct result of the efficiency of Coach Boylin. Our popular mentor is a graduate of Wake Forest, and is finishing his fourth year as director of Panther athletics. It is needless to say that Coach has had a hard time here, but his success, despite this fact, is all the more commendable. A comparison between the teams of the first year of the College and the teams that have represented High Point since that time show what he has meant here. Those men who have played under the direction of Coach Jack Boylin have nothing for him but the highest regard, which is probably the finest thing that can be said of a coach. High Point College is indebted to Coach J. P. Boylin.

FOOTBALL

HOBART THOMPSON

Spectacular and dependable was this fine leader of the Panther band last season. Pat's attributes made him the ideal leader through a hard schedule. His fighting heart, his knowledge of football, and his disposition, combine to make him an inspiration to his men and to make himself one of the most talked of players in this section. This Illinoisian will have one more year of football, and there is no doubt that he will eclipse his past efforts.

RILEY MARTIN

The managerial reins of the football squad were looked after by this Pennsylvania product. Efficiency is his motto, and he looked after the business details of the team like an old-time manager. Every day Riley was on the field, and has never failed in his duties. Whether it was transportation or accommodations, he had everything "fixed" at the proper time. The only thing he lacks is hair for his head.

Manager

RESUME

HIGH POINT—FT. BRAGG

This game was scheduled as a varsity one, but the scrubs handled most of it in good style. The game served two purposes in that it gave the regulars a rest, and also offered the opportunity to see in action some men who were not eligible for the other game.

HIGH POINT—LENOIR RHYNE

This game was the first one with a "Little Six" opponent, and proved to be a good fight. The Panthers were reputed to be much better, but two little breaks kept the score to a very close margin. Shortly after the Boylinites scored they fumbled, thus giving the Bears a touchdown. Lenoir's second score came as a result of a blocked kick. The Bears were a fighting lot that day.

HIGH POINT—ELON

The second "Little Six" game with Elon was an all-Panther affair. The score does not indicate the superiority in this game. Boylin's men seemed to take real delight in crushing their opponents, and the local mentor let a lot of his utility players get in and enjoy it. The Christians conceded nothing until the final whistle—though everything was against them.

HIGH POINT—ATLANTIC CHRISTIAN

To prove further their prowess in the junior conference of the state, the Panthers crushed the Little Christians under an avalanche of touchdowns in the second half of the encounter. Boylin took most of his varsity out of the game after they had scored one touchdown, and did not insert them again until the beginning of the second half. The Wilsonites got away for a touchdown shortly after the regulars were taken from the game.

HIGH POINT—PRESBYTERIAN

This affair proved to be the most heart-breaking game that the Panthers participated in during the season. P. C. got two touchdowns early, but were put on the short end of the score when the locals started the second half with two touchdowns and a safety. The Blue Stockings got hold of another score in the last three minutes of play when High Point made the mistake of playing defensive ball instead of keeping the oval in their own possession.

HIGH POINT—NEWBERRY

In this contest High Point's aggregation played the best game of the season. They held the Newberry Indians on the six-inch line for four downs, and soon after went out and got themselves a touchdown to win the game 6-0. The Panthers refused to make the mistake that they did the week before, and were driving the Newberry line on their four-yard line at the

BASKETBALL

RALPH MULLIGAN

The captain of the basketball team is small in stature, but packed full of energy and life. He has led the team capably, and being the leader has not kept him from playing his own stellar game on the court. Mulligan is conceded to be one of the fastest men in the state, and this asset has added to the efficiency of the team throughout the campaign. Ralph has one more year at High Point.

GLENN PERRY

The floor team was well taken care of with this native of Thomasville in the manager's role. They say in the equipment room that Perry never lost a blanket. Coach Boylin feels that this accomplishment on the manager's part makes him a marked man and worthy of much praise. Glenn is a pre-medical student, and will graduate from the college this June.

Manager

CLIFFORD MITCHELL

This running mate of Mulligan is a guard of the first calibre. "Mitch" seems to have no trouble getting into the scoring column himself while seeing that his opponents are held to a minimum. His long shots from the deep court have given many a thrill during the season just past.

HOBART THOMPSON

This fellow is the same dependable, brilliant player in basketball that he is on the gridiron. Playing at a forward position "Pat" is again this season one of the leading scorers on the squad. He is also versatile enough that he may be used at the pivot position if the necessity arises.

RILEY LITMAN

Another of William Penn's boys is Litman. He is a finished basketball player and cavorts around the guard position. He is a good shot, coming in for his share of the limelight as a scorer from the deep court. Riley is a sophomore and has two more years with the team.

BASKETBALL

ALLAN HASTINGS

Hastings served his first year on the floor team in an admirable fashion. His first streak of brilliancy was in the Winston-Salem game when he scored 25 points in about as many minutes. From that time on he developed and became a fine performer.

HERBERT STRICKLER

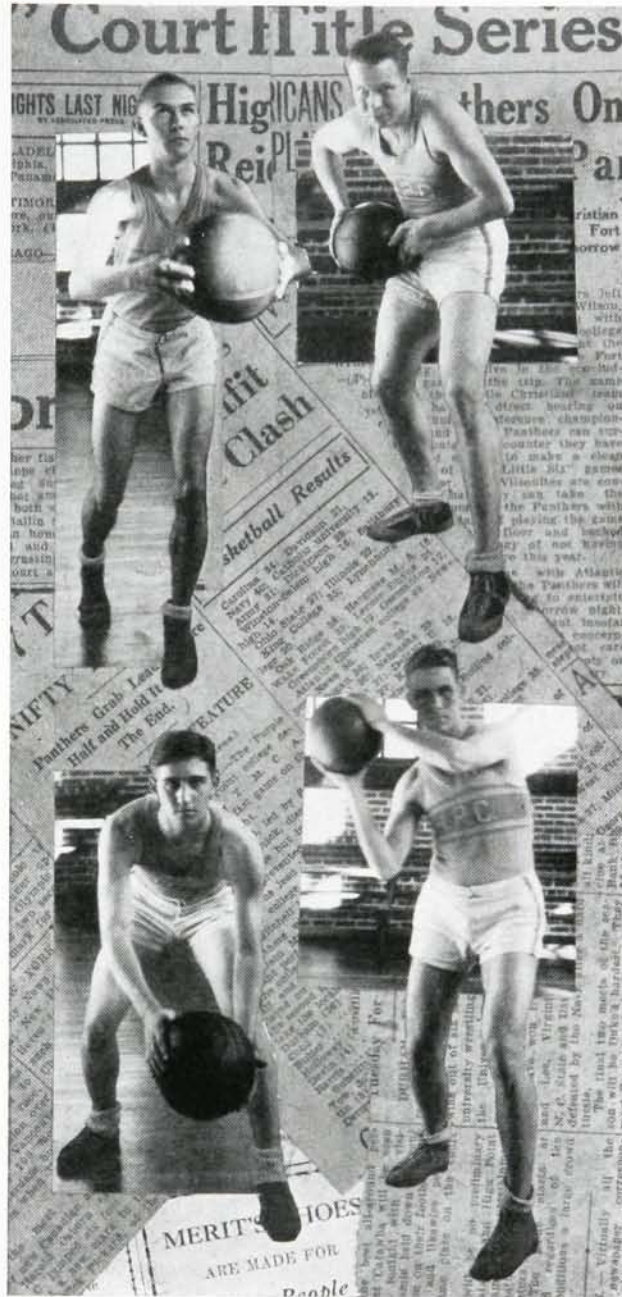

This big fellow is a newcomer in the Panther ranks, but he has already proved himself to be the best center that the college ever boasted. He has added the punch to the team that has kept it in the winning column. Strick will have a few more years at High Point and will set the basketball fans a dizzy pace before he is through.

HARRY JOHNSON

The Pennsylvanian you see here comes in the same category with Walters—he's mighty tricky with a basketball, too. Like some others, this is Harry's first year with the team; but he has shown unusual ability and will continue to improve and star with the cage team.

VIRGIL YOW

Gibsonville's representative has as his chief attribute, dependability. Virgil filled the position at center before the others rounded into form for the job. However, this fellow has been valuable to Coach Boylin as a good utility man. Yow has one more year at college.

"Little Six" Champions

High Point won an undisputed claim to the basketball championship of the "Little Six" conference of the state when Elon was beaten on her own court. There remained one more game with a conference team for the Panthers, but no matter what the result may be the title rests secure at High Point.

CAPTAIN

MANAGER

BASEBALL

VIRGIL YOW

The High Point College baseball team this year will be captained by C. Virgil Yow, an all-round athlete at the local institution. Yow is a versatile performer in the diamond sport, and although best known for his pitching ability, he is frequently used in the outfield because of his ability to hit.

Captain Yow is a member of the Junior Class, having entered High Point College from Gibsonville High School, Gibsonville, North Carolina.

CLIFFORD MITCHELL

A playing manager is a rare thing to a baseball team, but Clifford Mitchell has the honor of holding that position. Clifford is quite a baseball player, and is capable of holding down the difficult backstop position or performing in the outer gardens. Still, when Coach Boylin began looking around for a good manager his eyes fell upon the burly form of the caretaker of athletic equipment. Mitchell, besides playing, will also have to perform the manager's duties, but he will do a good job of them both.

RESUME

The baseball team, representing High Point College last year, was one of the strongest in the history of the school. Starting the season with bright prospects, with the exception of the pitching staff, the Panthers began a long hard schedule that would tax the potential powers of any aggregation. The team took a trip through South Carolina during the Easter holidays and turned in three notable victories against two defeats. The teams met and defeated, were Erskine, Wofford, and Piedmont college. The Panthers were defeated by Newberry in a hard-fought game and ended the trip with a close defeat from Piedmont in a two game series.

The locals lost four games by the margin of one run. Two of these were to Atlantic Christian College by the close score of 5-4. Wake Forest managed to pull two games out of the fire against the Panthers by coming from behind in the closing innings to win both games, 11-8, and 3-2. The Boylinites had the habit of losing close games by the margin of one or two runs. Edwin Hedrick, local hurler, was the chief hard luck pitcher, losing four games by only one run.

The Pointers were not so successful in the "Little Six" conference games, losing to Lenoir-Rhyne, Atlantic Christian and Elon. Catawba College was defeated in two games, one of them being a shutout game for the locals while the other tilt went twelve innings before the locals could score the winning runs.

Coach J. P. Boylin has high hopes of a successful season for this year's diamond squad. He bases his optimism upon the fact that the majority of the letter men from last year and year before last are back. Also the team is augmented by some new and high class material that would be welcomed by any college team.

Among the lettermen back are: catchers, Wade Fuquay and Clifford Mitchell; pitchers, Edwin Hedrick and Virgil Yow; infielders, Raymond Perdue, Ray Dixon, Paul Brassler and Ernest Blosser. Among the candidates for the outer garden will be Graham Madison, Ragsdale, former Oak Ridge performer, William Ludwig, and others.

The hurling corps will be strengthened by the addition of Grady Stone, former star pitcher for Wallburg High School. Stone entered the local college at the beginning of the second semester and his friends are looking for him to have a most successful season.

Ragsdale is one of the hardest hitters in the state and a great defensive man. This Spring he is to get a tryout with Greensboro Piedmont league club.

TRACK

CAPTAIN RALPH MULLIGAN

Mulligan was again elected captain of the High Point College track team. He was the lone High Point entry in the state intercollegiate meet in Greensboro last year, and won two third places, in the 100 and 220 yard dashes. He scored three first places in a dual meet against Guilford, and one first and two seconds in a dual meet with Wake Forest.

CAPTAIN JUANITA AMICK

This makes Juanita Amick's third successive year as captain of the girls' track team. She is considered as one of the best girl athletes in the state and holds quite a few records at the college. She is especially strong in the running broad jump, the hurdles and the baseball throw. She has proved a good leader and is deserving of much consideration in college sport activities.

MANAGER CLYDE PUGH

Pugh was selected manager of both the girls' and boys' track team, and has arranged very attractive schedules for both of the organizations. Pugh, although only a sophomore, is considered as one of the most energetic young men on the campus, and holds many responsible positions.

MANAGER

Boys' Track Team

Fourth Row: STRICKLER, WORLEY, STELGEN, HASTINGS.

Boys' Track Team

THE High Point College track team was not very successful last year—probably as it was the first track team the college has ever had. Through various sources the team this year has been equipped with new suits. Practice started early in the spring, and as the book goes to press there is every indication that the team is going to be successful.

Strickler has proved to be a very good field man. He puts the shot around forty feet, hurls the discus a distance of 130 feet, and high jumps about five feet, ten inches. Johnson has displayed unusual ability in crossing both the high and low hurdles, and is expected to win several places. Ludwig, in the pole vault, has been crossing the bar at eleven feet. Barkby, Stelgan, Hunter, Smith, Massey, have all made good time in the distance events—most of them specializing in the mile and half mile. Worley, Perdue, and Forshier centered their attention to the weights, and promise to place in the different meets. Litman, Ewing, and Mulligan all showed well in the sprints. Ewing and Mulligan take part in the 100, 220, and broad jump, while Litman runs the 440 and half mile.

Last year the team finished fifth in the state intercollegiate meet with six points. There is little doubt but that the Panthers will be higher in the list this year.

Track Schedule

April 13	Interclass Meet
April 20	Guilford Dual Meet (pending)
April 27	Catawba Dual Meet (pending)
May 3-4	State Intercollegiate Meet
May 9	Dual Meet with Davidson

Girls' Track Team

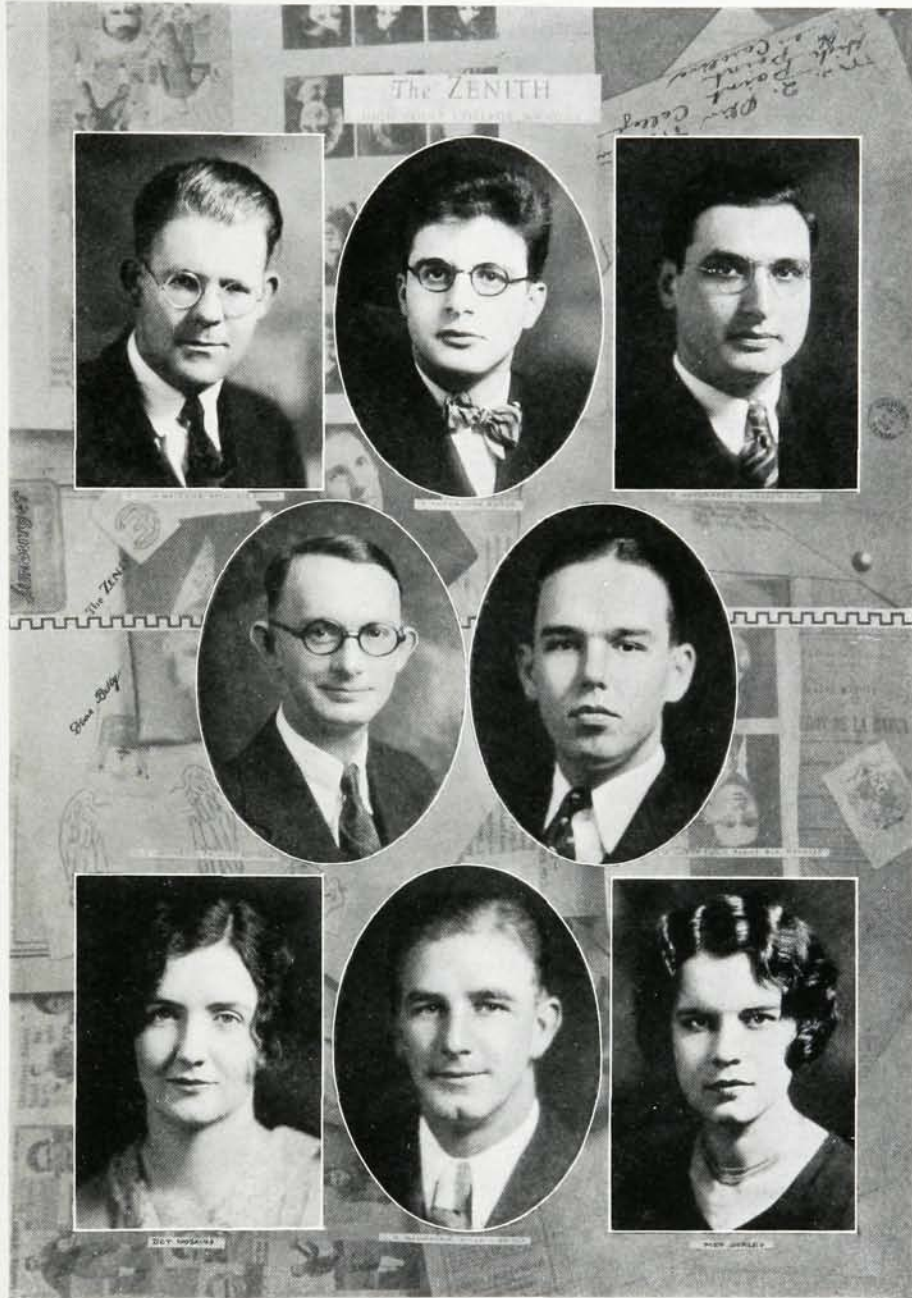

Girls' track at High Point College is the only form of sport that the girls have a chance to participate in, and it is fast becoming popular with the girls as a whole. The first year there were only thirteen girls on the squad, last year there were twenty-seven, and this year over thirty reported for the first practice. Letters are awarded to those girls who win a first place or a total of eight points during the season.

The Choral Club was indeed a success during the past year. Under the able direction of Prof. Stimson the club prepared and presented several programs of merit. Unfortunately the Christmas cantata was abandoned after the influenza epidemic became so serious at the College. A public recital was given jointly by the club and the college orchestra. The same week the club broadcasted from Station WNRC at Greensboro. A cantata will be given during commencement week.

Akrothinian Literary Society

The Akrothinian Literary Society is the youngest society on the campus, and a brother society to the Artemesians. The first joint society day held this year was a very elaborate affair.

The society appreciates the interest taken by alumni members this year. Fred T. Hauser has offered an annual prize of $10 in gold to the society member who is selected to give the society day address. Glenn Perry, a senior, made the address this year. The Paul Swanson prize of $10 is given annually to the man who has proven to be the best all-around member during the school year. The Holmes-Hill-Paschall prize of $10 is given to the debater who makes the intercollegiate debating team. Should more than one man make the team, this sum is given to each man.

The membership of the society has increased very rapidly and promises to be one of the largest organizations on the campus by next year. The programs have been excellent and all of the members have had the society at heart.

*To Thee, Oh fairest Nike
 We bow in worshipping
 We pray thee to accept the love
 We now so humbly bring
 We recognize thy wisdom
 Our hearts all turn to thee
 To gain thy richest blessing
 A crown of victory.*

*All praise to thee dear Nike
 Our refuge and our friend
 We'll always think of thee with love
 And serve thee to the end
 Though far away we wander
 When college days are through
 We'll cherish dearest mem'ries
 And sing our praise of you.*

Words and Music by Dorothy Hoskins and Margaret Gurley

In our hearts we'll hold the mem'ry of a place we love the best:
When we're on the field of battle, When we strive for praise to thee;

O'er it waves a pur-ple ban-ner Em-blem of its fearless-
May our tears be un-de-feat-ed, Ours the crown of victoness We praise thy name — and thy ho-nor true — ry

they stand for loy-al-ty and love; — May yours be fame —

The musical score consists of four systems. Each system includes a vocal line on a treble clef staff and a piano accompaniment on grand staff (treble and bass clefs). The key signature is one flat (B-flat), and the time signature is 4/4. The lyrics are written below the vocal line, with some words appearing above the staff in the third system. The piano accompaniment features a steady rhythmic pattern in the bass line and chordal accompaniment in the treble line.

- that to you is due - For you well al-ways fight we want the right-ful-fuld thy standards high To give the best we have to - thee Mem'ries of you we will che-rish, H. P. C.

The musical score consists of four systems, each with a vocal line and piano accompaniment. The key signature is B-flat major (two flats). The first system contains the lyrics: "- that to you is due - For you well al-ways fight we want the". The second system contains: "right-ful-fuld thy standards high To give the best we". The third system contains: "have to - thee Mem'ries of you we will". The fourth system contains: "che-rish, H. P. C.". The piano accompaniment features a steady bass line and chords in the right hand. The piece concludes with a final chord in the piano part.

You Won't Find the Answer in the
"BOOK OF ETIQUETTE"

If you're not quite sure which fork to use, or if you are wondering how to greet a visiting queen, the "Book of Etiquette" can give you kindly counsel.

But when it comes to the selection of a gift, you must look to your own brains for the inspiration and guidance.

Maybe you're desperate, but take heart. We can be of help to you before it is too late. For we are always showing the unusual at our store, and here you will find the perfect gift, easily and quickly.

It may be a gorgeous diamond or a stately but inexpensive silver vase, but whatever it is, it will bear the seal of STAMEY'S . . . and that means gifts beyond comparison but most moderately priced.

MODERN BEAUTIES

—of these days do not depend altogether upon facials, marcel, permanents and other beauty aids to keep up appearances. They send their dainty frocks, beautiful coats and other wearing apparel regularly to Sartin to be expertly dry cleaned and made to look like new. All the clearness of color—all the freshness of feel—all the softness of nap—all the original smartness of style—is restored to your clothing by our process of dry cleaning and modern pressing methods.

Ever since Stalen came to dear old Fllhoutblank College the place has never been the same. He is that sort of a fellow who would never let any of his associates lower his standing. He stands high in the estimates of the faculty and can often be seen talking with the dean. He has the ability to think on almost any subject about which he may have ideas.

Stalen is a very popular young man socially, especially with the weaker-mind d sex. He always attends all functions where anything to eat is served without cost. There is no more persistent visitor at the woman's hall than he. He hasn't accomplished much yet but he is expecting to get away with something almost any day now. He is the sort of a young man of which are college is justly proud. We know that regardless of what endeavour he may go into, a bright future confronts him.

Utility Service and the Community

More than any other one factor, the quality of its utility services determines the desirability and attractiveness of a community for business or as a place in which to live.

In industry and in the home the application of electricity to industrial and household operations is multiplying the effectiveness of the labor of the worker and relieving the housekeepers of drudgery and fatigue. And while it increases the efficiency of the individual, it raises the quality of the work accomplished as well.

We invite attention to the standard of utility services in the cities in which we supply these essentials to modern living and modern business.

LOCAL COLLEGE PROFESSOR DIES

Dr. Stalen Hard, of local Oigevahlt College, passed out last night from a severe attack of Polymathemia. Dr. Hard is a graduate of Filloutblank College and has had two summer school courses at Microcephalon College. He then spent two years in Germany and won his Ph.D. in Education at Dummkopfesel University of Chicago, Illinois.

This is Dr. Hard's first experience of this kind.

WE wish to take advantage of this opportunity to thank the people with whose co-operation this annual has been made possible.

The mainstay of any publication is its advertisers, and we wish to extend to them our thanks and best wishes. A sound and successful company advertises and is proud of its output. We would have the students bear this in mind.

We wish to heartily thank Mr. Grover Angel for his tireless and persistent effort at collecting photographs for special sections in this book. James Asbury for special art work. Nor must we forget Kalopia Antonakos and Lorain Ellison for typing, proof-reading, and offering helpful remarks and suggestions, which were cheerfully disregarded. We must also thank Riley Martin and Fred Pegg for operating two word-mills. Special gratitude is proffered to Miss Betty Sloan of N. C. for inspiration and help in eliminating from our book many features, following quaint old American customs general enough to apply to any campus, which were souperfluerius. The Editor and Associate Editor wish to express appreciation to Thelma McPhaul for a square meal and two days of much needed rest.

The Senior Class acknowledges gratitude to Mr. S. P. Montgomery for his supervision of the erection of the fountain. Also to these firms in High Point for their generous gifts and cooperation in the project:
